The Commissioner to-day reversed the decision of the Register and Receiver of Carson City Nevada, in the claim of the Central Pacific Railroad Company against the State of Nevada to a tract of land in the vicinity of Virginia City and Gold Hill The testimony establishes the fact that no mines have been discovered upon said tract but that it may be in the mineral belt and is in the immediate vicinity of the Comstock lode and notwithstanding the undeveloped character of the land and its situation, the testimony indicates the existence of mineral there, while the fact is hardly established that the land is of any value whatever for agricultural purposes and if it has any value the same consists in undeveloped mines.

There was no caucusing, no buttonholing by candidates no running hither and thither, no pulling and hauling but all things were done decently and in order In fine it can be said that every one of the nominees stands well in his own neighborhood The ticket will be elected

CERTAIN THINGS VENTILATED

THE BULLETIN THE PROGRESSIONIST DAVIS, CORNELIUS AND SCOTT ALL OWNED BY THE SAME MAN—MATTERS VARIOUS AND RICH

If the epidermis of D I Davis editor of the Cornelius Progressionist is not thicker than that of a rhinoceros it must be getting pretty sore under Judge Bingham's treatment. It is not however wholly nor mainly on account of its excoriation of Davis but on account of the other rich rare racy readable and ridiculous disclosures it makes that we transcribe from the Independent Bingham's last

CORNELIUS Oregon April 2, 1874

Editor Independent I will again ask permission through your columns, to notice a vile and slanderous article in our very dirty sheet the Progressionist against myself I would not have alluded to his very thin article were it not for the purpose of explaining some matters therein contained

I will commence by saying that it is well known to all Republicans of this place and at Hillsboro, that when Davis commenced editing the Progressionist that he agreed not to allude to the causes that had hitherto divided the Republican party and that he would not meddle with the local quarrels of the county He agreed to work for the well being of the whole party and upon this understanding his paper received a fair subscription list.

But all of a sudden he came out with his open letter to Humphreys [illegible] out the spleen of a few who owed him a spite and with assaults and abuse to others of the party in all directions he soon got the party in an uproar and he was being blamed on all sides It was then that I, by and with the advice of prominent Republicans of the county told Mr Davis that he had taken the fatal step and that the men that had been his friends were deserting his paper Davis admitted that he had done wrong, and said that if I would go to Col T R Cornelius and buy the press and manage it myself he would run it as I would direct and that old Tom Cornelius and Ben Holladay both had lied to him from the jump that he did not care what he did with the paper while they owned it that they were only paying him $40 a month and would not give him a railroad pass as they had agreed to do He said that H W Scott was getting fifty dollars a week to run the Bulletin, and said that as Scott was best acquainted in Washington county that Holladay ought to send Scott out here and put him (Davis) on the Bulletin Then I went and saw Col T R Cornelius about the press but found him disinclined to resign control of the paper I went back to Mr Davis and told him that I did not want the press but did not tell him that I thought Cornelius would not sell it as Mr Davis was very sore about that time over not getting promoted to the Bulletin editorship nor getting a railroad pass Davis swore that they had hired Frank Myers to do their dirty work and that he would go to H W Corbett and get the money and buy the press and go back on Holladay and Cornelius both He got on his horse then late in the evening and went to Portland coming back next day and when I asked him what luck he had had at Portland he remarked that Corbett had gone to Europe long ago I will here state that while he (Davis) was gone to Portland I apprised Col Cornelius of the nature of his visit to Portland in order to prevent Davis from selling him out These are the facts in the case which is a sufficient answer to Davis charge in the Progressionist that I had levied blackmail upon him

I will now explain the Reeves letter matter that he is harping about About the time Reeves was having his law suit with the School Board of Cornelius Mr Davis and others were discussing the object of Reeves in the matter when it was claimed that he was doing it in order to make fair weather with Hillsboro Republicans whereupon Davis himself suggested that I should write the matter up and after he had suggested what it should contain I wrote it and went over and showed it to Col Tom He said it was all right I took it back to the Progressionist office and told Davis that Cornelius said to let it slide And up to this time it was supposed that it would go in as an editorial but by Mr Davis own suggestion it was made a Hillsboro correspondence, and I did not sign it at all and the manuscript will speak for itself The thing all went off lovely Davis and others were having their fun at Reeves expense until down came the Bell Weather to organize a Grange with Reeves and some of his friends as charter members in which Davis was badly snubbed as he wanted to get into the Grange This was a death blow to his future glory for he had all the necessary arrangements to lead the Grangers to victory, and the laugh begun to come the wrong way So here Mr Davis true to his treacherous history, attempted to make fair weather with Reeves and others by making a scape goat of me, hence the written notice etc

And now one word to Mr Spencer Cornelius and Langworthy &c in regard to Davis rum shop Will these gentlemen attempt to deny that Messrs Davis & Wilcox have a U S revenue whisky license posted up in their postoffice in this town is the law license and that they do not sell whisky? If so I will take the pains to show it to them And I can show them in several men here in Cornelius that did not get this superfluous compliment to bolster up the Southern rebel [illegible] and editor

In reply to Mr J Wilcox (who so readily comes to the relief of his partner in the whisky mill and deputy postmaster) I will say that when Mr Wilcox called my attention to the article in the OREGONIAN he asked me if I believed that Davis had ever been in the Rebel army and from my own interest and that of others I simply said no I did not add another word his long drawn out assertion to the contrary notwithstanding

And now Mr Editor if you will allow me to ask Dr D I Davis where and how he came in possession of that half bushel basketful of Confederate money that he showed to me and several other living witnesses in this county which he handles so carefully I will agree to let the matter drop But I want Mr Davis to speak right out in meeting, and tell us where he got it. I think the charge that he has it and I can prove it

Davis I don't blame you so much for being a Confederate soldier but I do blame you for deserting the South and then denying the whole thing Yours, J B BINGHAM

THE STATE PRINTING

Some time since a correspondent of the OREGONIAN as will be recollected gave a statement of the increase of expenditures for the State printing from the time of the organization of the State down to the present time, and a computation of the probable amount yet to be paid under the present administration This showing we supposed then and still suppose was correct in the main, if not in every particular There can be no question that the expense of doing the State printing is much greater than it should be and it is to be hoped that one of the very first things the Independent Legislature shall do when it meets next September will be to pass a law reducing the compensation of the State Printer to a reasonable rate This is a big leak, and when it is stopped the saving to the people will be measured not by hundreds but by thousands of dollars

The letter referred to above brought out another, and that was responded to by the State Printer, who did not deny that the compensation he receives is entirely too high, but simply throws himself upon his legal rights, saying he did his work and took the fees allowed by law for it, and that he only did what any other business man would do under similar circumstances But by this time the discussion had begun to assume a personal aspect and to be addressed to questions relating to the conduct of the State Printer in connection with his official services, rather than to the questions in which the people of the country are or ought to be chiefly interested, namely are the fees of the State Printer too high? how much too high are they? and shall they be reduced to a reasonable sum for the work?

We have before us two communications, one on each side of the controversy in its personal aspect, but we cannot see that the people are greatly interested in this branch of the question The Legislature was sent up to the Capital to guard the interests of the people It frittered away its time and wasted its energies in partisan schemes of one sort and another, and left undone the legislation needed to save the people from unnecessary and ruinous taxation. The State Printer, like the Clerks and Sheriffs of the populous counties, the State Treasurer and various other officers, was allowed by law more money than his services were worth, and like them he took it. We have not had the pleasure of making the acquaintance of any officers who stand upon a question of conscience and refuse to accept the fees allowed them by law on the ground that they are higher than they should be The State Printer did his work well, as an investigation—not of his friends—reported to the Legislature, and he received the pay provided by law for which we are sure was in the neighborhood of twice as much as it should have

The Legislatures that enact these outrageous fee bills, and the Governors who approve them are to blame for them The people of Oregon should bear that in mind and see to it that such men are chosen [to] fill these positions as will not only not [do] the same wrongs over again, but undo them at the earliest day practicable.

HOW THE WORK GOES ON.

In another column will be found the names nominated by the Independent Conventions of Marion and Benton counties. They are such as to command the respect of the entire community, and justify the confidence of those who have been favorable to Independent action The character of the persons selected as candidates, is the best possible refutation of the charges made through the party [illegible] that this movement for reform was originated and is being carried out in the interests of disappointed party politicians That class of persons has no place upon the tickets There are are some men on the ticket who have been more or less prominent in political matters heretofore some of them have acted with the Republican party, others with the Democratic but these are all men who can not be accused of leaving their respective parties because of personal grievances Hon John Minto for instance a Republican always, a Republican to day, stands for Representative in the Legislature Only last week he was offered the same position by the Republican organization and declined it, assigning as a reason for so doing, his conviction that the welfare of the people would be better promoted by independent political action than by strict adherence to the party organizations His course in this matter does him honor It is the course of honesty and patriotism And in a similar relation to the Democratic organization stands Wm. H Pugh These men are not disappointed office seekers, nor trimming placemen They have nothing in common with such

So far as heard from the Independent Conventions generally have been judicious in selecting their local tickets They have considered only the fitness of the candidates to serve the public in the positions for which they have been named The reforms demanded in local and State governments have been the paramount object to be accomplished, and men have been selected with especial reference to that object Let the State Convention be equally judicious, and there need be no fear of its action being disowned by the people.

PORTLAND, DALLES AND SALT LAKE RAILWAY

C Beal, Esq has received the following letter from Geo W McCrary, Chairman of the Committee to which the Portland, Dalles and Salt Lake Railway bill was referred

WASHINGTON D C March 8 1874

HON C BEAL—Dear Sir Your kind favor of the 14th inst is before me and has been read with much interest I think I understand your situation, and I am desirous of aiding you as far as possible. The bill to which you refer in relation to the Portland, Dalles and Salt Lake Railroad is now pending before the Committee on Railways and Canals, of which I am Chairman Col Chapman, of your State has been several times before us, and the bill has been considered. Although no conclusion has as yet been reached I think the Committee is favorably inclined toward the bill There is a strong feeling in the country and in Congress against anything like subsidy, and this feeling may be in the way of the passage of the bill, although it does seem pretty clear that the Government is giving nothing, but is in fact making a bargain with the advantages largely in its own favor

As ever your friend
GEO W McCRARY

We said a few days ago that the reduction of the public debt ceased and it began to increase soon after the re election of President Grant The Bulletin thinks it a sufficient answer to this to say that it was some months after the inauguration of the President that the process of reduction was exchanged for a process of increase That is begging the question The point we made is that instead of continuing the exercise of that care and economy which enabled Grant's first Administration to reduce the debt so rapidly as the time for the Presidential election drew near this second Administration has permitted it to increase right along from month to month No quibbling about dates will meet the case Deny it or explain it or else leave the people to draw their own inferences

We learn that Mrs Combs wife of R G Combs Esq is a candidate for the office of School Director in this District Many persons have expressed the opinion that since so large a number of the teachers employed are ladies, it is no more than proper that there be a lady in the Board of Directors Mrs Combs is well qualified by education and talents for the position, and her election would doubtless give general satisfaction

The Independents of Dalles chose the following Delegates to the Independent County Convention R W Crandall E F Smith Daniel Bolton Jos Beezley, W M Hand, J H Phillips Geo Ruch John Irvine J Whitney and Alex Grey The meeting was orderly and all passed off pleasantly, and with the very best of feeling So says the Mountaineer

The Hawkeye says the delegates from Lane county to the Republican State Convention are Odell, late Surveyor General, four chain bearers, three postmasters, and one farmer The Convention was run by Odell and John Kelly

Speaking of Miss Ella Sabin's nomination by the Republican Convention of Lane county, for the office of School Superintendent, the Hawkeye says "She is a young lady of fine educational attainments, and was put on the ticket to give it respectability

The California Legislature at its recent session passed a local option law and the people of that State are well pleased if we may judge of popular sentiment by the utterances of the press

Bourbonism, Butlerism or Manhood That is the choice now presented to the people of Oregon

SCRAPS FROM THE STATE PRESS

The Albany Register says

A large and enthusiastic precinct meeting was held on Saturday last by the Independents Speeches were made and the utmost confidence expressed in the success of the ticket to be put in the field by the coming Independent County Convention Following are the delegates selected to represent this precinct in said Convention four of whom have heretofore affiliated with the Democratic party Frank Parton, D N Cook, S Powell G F Simpson, M C Calloway, E E Fanning, G H Baber and T Smith

And then

Wm P Pugh now comes to the front and refuses to stay put as the Democratic candidate for County Surveyor of Marion county This is the third Democratic nominee in Marion that has declined to allow his name to be used by the party as a candidate for office

Thus from the Dallas Republican

It is well understood that the only object for bringing out the Republican ticket was to defeat the Independents and elect if possible the Democratic candidates It is also well known that the Convention would never have been called had it not been at the instance of our straight out friend David Holmes who has declared that he will do anything to accomplish the defeat of the Independent candidate for Sheriff

And this

From all over our State comes the intelligence that the Independents are active and working and in every precinct or county, so far as heard from, their primaries and Conventions have been more largely and enthusiastically attended than either the Republicans or Democrats

And again

The Republican Convention on last Saturday was the biggest fizzle that ever was known in this county They came very near having a general row, and most everybody connected with it, felt terribly chagrined The entire ticket, so to speak, was nominated from four precincts The delegates from the northern portion of the county went home mad and disgusted The ticket is a Hipple Mitchell ticket from beginning to end

From the Benton Democrat

In almost every precinct in the county the Independent primaries were largely attended At the meeting held in Corvallis about seventy votes were polled—nearly double that of both the other parties combined

LETTER FROM SILVERTON

NOT THE STRONGEST TICKET BUT THE WEAKEST

SILVERTON April 3 1874

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

"Republican" writing to the Bulletin from Salem under date of March 28th, in speaking of the Republican ticket that day nominated says "the ticket is deemed a strong one, and is accepted as satisfactory by Republicans in all parts of the county

"Republican certainly possesses remarkable facilities for obtaining information from "all parts of the county in a very short period of time indeed, for your readers will bear in mind that the ticket of which he speaks was not nominated until the after part of the very day on which he writes Here in Silverton where we are blessed with a daily mail from Salem and lots of Republican candidates a knowledge of who were on the ticket did not reach us until a late hour at night

He further says The Legislative ticket is considered particularly good The idea of Legislative ability in Cranston Durst or Childers to say nothing of the others calls forth "loud smiles from all who hear it advanced Minto the best man on the ticket I hear declined to run with them

The fact is, it is regarded as the weakest ticket ever nominated in this county and especially is this true of Cranston and Darst for the Legislature Shaw for Sheriff Hibbard for Assessor and Huffman for Commissioner There are not to exceed twenty Straight-outs in this precinct that will vote the ticket straight I heard one of their leading men say this evening that it was a perfect dish water concern and would not receive the party vote and he it was who was the only man in the precinct who last fall swallowed the H. Smith dose and relished it News comes to us from other parts of the county of general dissatisfaction with the ticket Morris for Clerk is the only one on the ticket that will get the vote of his party and even he is losing strength The Independents will sweep this precinct

THE TICHBORNE CLAIMANT IN PRISON —Since his incarceration in Newgate says the London Telegraph the "claimant has done his best to keep up the delusion that he is the missing heir to the baronetcy and estates He stoutly refuses to answer to the appellation of Orton or Castro but willingly responds to the name of Tichborne Otherwise he has accepted his fate submitting to the prison regulations and accommodated himself to his changed position with as much ease and tact as he had shown before in passing from the life of a bush ranger to the role of a baronet The prisoner seems to have been most impressed with his fall when he had to don the prison apparel It was brought to him Monday His convict garb is a brown woolen suit with knee breeches, ribbed woolen stockings common leather shoes, and a cap with a little knob atop without a peak It is scarcely necessary to say that this suit required some expansive dimensions The shirt sleeves are thirty seven inches round the muscle of the arm alone being twenty seven inches and the chest is fifty six inches When it was shown to Orton he faltered a little but the feeling was only momentary and he quickly regained his usual self possession In this altered dress [illegible] and the hair cropped short the huge bulk of the prisoner only remains to identify him with the defendant of the Queen's Bench His manner since his confinement has been taciturn but not sullen He rises at 6 retires at 8 sleeps wonderfully well and on the whole takes kindly to his skilly but he rather fails in picking oakum He does not succeed in getting through anything like the portion allotted to him but the tar rope is somewhat trying, and as yet his fingers are rather delicate for the work.

CITY.

FIRE —Saturday morning at 3 o clock the fire bell of the city sounded an alarm Soon after smoke was observed to emanate from a large frame dwelling house situated on the east side of Seventh street between Alder and Washington and occupied by Mrs Allen as a boarding house Thitherward in a few moments all the engines of the city were speeding with all possible haste However as it was at an early hour of the morning, some little delay unavoidably followed before the engines arrived at the scene. This delay gave the fire an opportunity to spread and gain considerable [illegible] After catching the fire had [illegible] way along between the ceiling and [illegible] also the weather boarding and [illegible] appearances, the fire had [illegible] for several hours before its [illegible] was discovered When the Department reached the scene the rooms were filled with smoke so that firemen could not enter [illegible] the hazard of suffocation Such being the case the water had to be thrown at random for a little time ere the exact locality of the fire could be ascertained. It was but the work of a moment to extinguish the destroyer after its precise whereabouts was ascertained But this could not be accomplished until every apartment of the house was completely [illegible] Very fortunately for the remainder of the property which [illegible] on the block, the fire did not break through the building [illegible] the element bursted through [illegible] and a strong draft of air thus created, the consequences would [illegible] have been far more disastrous The building belonged to Mr Chas McCann [illegible] was insured in the Home Mutual [illegible] and in the Phoenix for $1000 The [illegible] bedding etc belonging to Mrs [illegible] the occupant of the house was [illegible] the London Liverpool and Globe [illegible] the Imperial for $650 The [illegible] has been variously estimated at [illegible] to $1,000, but we presume it will exceed the latter figure to put the building in [illegible] good repair as it was before the fire [illegible] damage from water and fire [illegible] effects of the occupants [illegible] $1 000 A number of gentlemen [illegible] in the house, sustained considerable [illegible] damage to clothing etc Too much [illegible] not be bestowed upon the Fire Department [illegible] gallantly responded to the alarm [illegible] by their exertions prevented the [illegible] flames and the destruction of [illegible]

CRUSADERS.—Last Saturday afternoon a number of ladies were again visiting the saloons of the city During the course of the afternoon a large delegation visited the saloon of Mr Moffett and, forthwith began to sing and pray Mr Moffett was absent at the time the ladies halted in front of the saloon. As a natural consequence, an immense crowd collected about the delegation and completely blocked up the sidewalk. After a few minutes the proprietor returned, and finding the crowd in front of his place of business collected about the ladies, he requested the officers to clear a way and disperse the throng Officers McCoy and Hudson, who were present, began to clear the sidewalk, as Mr Moffett had declared the proceedings a nuisance The delegation were requested to move away This they did not do however, without evident hesitation and reluctantly. In one or two instances where members of the delegation manifested an unwillingness to comply with the request it was necessary for the officers to take them by the arm and lead them away In a few minutes the sidewalk was cleared the crowds dispersed and the excitement, which had called them together was at an end

LATEST FROM STICKEEN

Purser Vanderbilt the courteous officer of the steamer Otter has given us the following items of interest from the above mines

On the last trip of the Otter about [illegible] men were brought to Fort Wrangel The steamer Otter which sailed from Victoria a few days subsequent to the Otter also took away a number of persons destined for the reported auriferous regions There are at Fort Wrangel a large number of persons waiting anxiously for the river to open At Wrangel the weather is reported beautiful and spring like Under the vernal influences of the sun and wind all the snow and ice have disappeared from the vicinity Everything indicates an early opening of the river

Mr Sylvester the expressman arrived at Wrangel on the evening of the 24th ult from the diggings He made the round trip in [illegible] days and was 11 days in coming down He reports that the weather is rapidly moderating and every indication is for an early opening of the Stickeen [illegible] and snow in many places had already begun to thaw Four hundred men were in the gold bearing regions at the time of the messenger s arrival About that number were scattered along the route between Wrangel and the mines Most of them the messenger found engaged in building boats As soon as the river shall open these persons will launch the crafts place in their stock of provisions and ascend the stream without any difficulty Should the present genial weather continue it is confidently anticipated that there will be a general breaking up of the ice in the river within two or three weeks at the furtherest Sylvester brought down 250 ounces of gold dust on his last trip, which had been taken out during a few weeks preceding his arrival at the mines Fires were being built every day in order to thaw out the ground and thus enable the miners to commence operations such was the prevailing degree of anxiety to test the diggings The messenger found every one in high spirits and confidently awaiting the coming of spring Wherever mining was being done from $12 to $30 per day is realized per man From all that can be determined from present prospects it is confidently thought that the precious metal exists in large quantities in those regions at least all appear in good hopes and are willing to take their chances Within the next thirty days there will be from 1 000 to 1 200 men at the diggings and the result of mining operations will then be known to a certainty Large quantities of provisions were found by the messenger scattered along the river which had been thrown away by those persons who were eagerly pressing their way towards the mines Provisions in the mines were quite scarce and as a natural consequence dear There are quantities of provisions at Wrangel, which will be forwarded to the mines immediately on the opening of the river

For the present the steamer Ella Anderson has been hauled off the route Only the steamers California and Otter are touching at Wrangel Two steamboats—engines and machinery for one of which was cast at the Willamette Iron Works—are now being constructed at Victoria These boats being built with express reference to run are on the Stikeen river Both are rapidly approaching completion, and will be ready to run by breaking up of the ice Intense excitement prevails everywhere concerning these mines and the $4 000 in dust brought down by the expressman only tends to confirm their predicted richness, and to add to the general feeling On the next trip of the California a large number of gold fevered individuals will be landed at Wrangel both from Portland and Victoria

Dear Sir—Your favor is just recieved I intended to have written to you several weeks since concerning the improvement in my health which is now very apparent I have used one bottle of Favorite Prescription with the best results although I will admit I was somewhat discouraged after its use (for a short time only ) I took it under disadvantageous circumstances—having the supervision of the house and during the house cleaning I was obliged through the incompetency of help to do more than I ought and of course suffered dreadfully lifted when I ought not to have raised my hand and did all I could to bring order out of chaos—but upon laying aside all cares and continuing the remedy I find that after using less than one bottle to be so much benefited that I have discontinued the use with no return of the symptoms of which I wrote you I have suffered terribly and what added to my distress was the consciousness of not procuring relief from ordinary sources at times it seemed about impossible to stand so great was the distress All of those severe neuralgic pains have disappeared they were so bad at times I could hardly walk without some external pressure They seem to have left me like magic, suddenly and have had no return all other symptoms have been removed The severe weakness and faintness have disappeared and I can go up stairs with comparative ease now I would have informed you ere this of my improvement but I apprehended that but I was fearful it was only transient [illegible] I was receiving but I think sufficient time has elapsed to consider the beneficial result permanent Accept of my best wishes for your future success and your kindness in advising me

MONDAY MORNING APRIL 6 1874

SUMNER'S PROPHECIES

Only a week before his death Senator Sumner entertained at dinner a Boston editor who was one of his old personal friends also, the Hon Amasa Walker Hon Mr Pierce and two or three other journalists

A letter from Philadelphia, dated 11th inst describing this dinner says

After the covers had been removed the question turned upon statesmanship and the future of the American Republic "Ah," said Mr Sumner "I won't live to see it but you will gentlemen you will if you live to be as old as I am now you will see the streets of our cities [illegible] with blood and the blood will be the blood of our own people, by our own people The future of America looks very, very dark to me To think of my State, which has always been so loyal to all that is good in good government, now being thrown to the political dogs—wounded, killed in the house of its friends" He stopped for two or three seconds and the silence in the room was most profound Then he said

Only think of a man like Benjamin F Butler influencing the head of a mighty nation in such a disreputable manner and to think of a President trying to break to pieces a party which had done so much for the nation and for him"

The question was asked of Mr Sumner, 'What do you think is the objective point of Mr Butler?' He replied, instantly, and without a scintilla of hesitation The Presidency, of course, and," he continued in a sorrowful mood, "the election of that man will be the downfall of the American Republic"

Then again there was a deep silence, which lasted a full minute, then Mr Sumner continued, in a measured, deep tone

"Now, gentlemen, you ask me why I think so, and I am just as anxious to tell you I know Benjamin F Butler better than any man in America. He is a very compendium and cyclopedia of revenge. He would move heaven and earth to gain a point, and his speciousness is where he carries the people The trouble with our people in the United States is they don't think for themselves Now, let us suppose Mr Butler to have been elected President He is commander-in-chief of the army and navy, and has the power of a satrap, so far as immediate action is concerned One of you gentleman criticise him in your journal You would be arrested in one hour and incarcerated for trial"

"Do you actually think so, Mr Sumner?" said one of the journalists, to which he replied "I have no more doubt of it than I have I am sitting in this chair, I am positive of it, for I know the man He would ruin the nation if he could not rule it to suit himself and adverse criticism would be met with instant punishment. That is Butler, but that is what the people would not submit to The American people are jealous of their liberties, but their liberties would be idols of the past when they elect Mr. Butler, and that election depends mainly upon the people of Massachusetts If they elect him Governor, then he stands a good opportunity of being placed in the chair of President Mr Butler would never serve four years as President, he would want a a different title, and he would get it if blood would get it

One of the gentlemen then asked him if he did not think that twenty-five or fifty Congressmen should be elected at large from the United States. He answered "That is a grand idea and will go a great distance in keeping down disturbances that I see will shortly arise The law of the land should be that a large number of Senators and Representatives should be elected generally by the nation If you ask a member to vote upon a certain bill, in a certain way, and though he is entirely out of its interest, he will generally reply 'what will my district say?—how will my constituents like it?' The independent thinkers in Congress are either dead or rapidly dying, and the nation is now parcelled up into little strips of interest, clashing and eternally warring O, gentlemen, I love my country! God knows I love her, but we are far, very far, from being a rock Members of Congress at large are what the people must have, it will avert the catastrophe for some years longer"

A SPURIOUS PRELATE

A WELL-NIGH FORGOTTEN CASE OF PRIESTLY IMPOSTURE

A few weeks ago there died at Spoleto Italy a man who at one time successfully deceived a Pope of Rome, and scandalized the whole Roman Church His name was Abraham Cashiour, and he was an Egyptian Copt The son of a fruit peddler of Cairo, he was brought to Italy and educated at the College of the Propaganda Here he gave out that his father was of immense wealth and great influence with the Egyptian Viceroy, and that if he (the son) was made patriarch of the Catholic Copts, the schismatic Copts would in a mass abjure their schism and return to the fold of the true church Leo XII., who was then the Pope was deceived by this report consecrated the young Cashiour as patriarch installed him with all the surroundings suitable to his rank. The patriarch received cardinals patricians and embassadors, while the people crowded around his carriage to kiss his outstretched hand It was observed however, that the new patriarch was very slow to go and take possession of his patriarchate He lingered about Rome, evidently enjoying the homage he was receiving It was observed that letters he had shown to the Pope, as coming to him from Egypt, were written on pontifical paper, and, suspicions being aroused, the Pope appointed a priest Canestrari by name to watch him

Cashiour, seeing that his star was beginning to pale, decided to start for Egypt with the priest. Of course, all this was before the days of railroads—about 1825—and the false patriarch traveled slowly along in his state carriage He traversed the southern part of the pontifical states, Sicily and Malta, everywhere honored and feted, and distributing, as he passed, his benedictions from the window of his coach

In due course of time the ship conveying the patriarch and priest arrived at the port of Alexandria, and Cashiour sent Canestrari in advance to arrange with the consular corps and the local authorities for his ceremonial disembarkment Either he did this in sheer desperation, or he had some faint hopes that he might still carry on his imposture But his career of successful fraud was at an end Mohamet Ali on hearing that Rome had sent with great pomp a patriarch whose mission was to bring back the schismatic Copts to the Romish Church, flew into a passion, declared that the new patriarch was an impostor and threatened to impale him if he dared to come on shore

The Canestrari took Cashiour back to Rome where the unhappy Copt was tried by the inquisition and sentenced to ecclesiastical degradation and imprisonment for life

For more than twenty years he lingered in prison, until 1849 the short lived Roman republic of that day set at liberty all the prisoners found in the dungeons of the inquisition Cashiour was among them, but a year later he decided to throw himself on the mercy of Pius IX who then had just remounted his throne The Pontiff was touched by this mark of confidence pardoned the penitent impostor and even permitted him to resume the ecclesiastical garb and say mass He also assigned him a pension of 1,500 francs For a time Cashiour lived at Rome but finally left the metropolis for Spoleto where he could support life more economically His death brought to its close a strange and checkered career At this date with the general use of telegraphic and mail facilities such an imposture would be impossible

A Bruneau valley, I T, correspondent writes us that over 5,000 head of cattle have been wintered in that valley, of which number only about twenty have died, and they were "dead heads"

That the famine of [illegible] in the money market ought never to be true in any country, but that it has [illegible] for [illegible] weeks has been an admitted fact. There is no actual scarcity but the funds are not generally in circulation and [illegible] most of the people at large, the money of the country [illegible] and [illegible] in the hands of a few Money may be plenty and yet trade [illegible] dull that money cannot be profitably invested in mercantile or other pursuit

The effect of the partial triumph of the inflationists in Congress is already being felt in New York The stock market [illegible] active with a general advance in [illegible] and [illegible] in the merchandise and produce market there [illegible] that the situation will be availed of by shrewd operators for a general buying of produce Gold has also taken an upward turn and the bulls confidently predict a further material advance in the premium. Ordinarily such an [illegible] advance in gold as has been made this week would promote the export trade in produce but it has failed to do so in this instance for the reason that produce prices have kept pace with gold with no response from independent foreign markets Cotton breadstuffs provisions petroleum and most of the other leading articles of export have all felt the spur of inflation, and the slackened movement of the outward trade is bearing with pressing severity on the ocean freighting business Merchants there almost without exception characterize the action of Congress in sanctioning the reissue of legal tender notes as a stupid folly and hopes are expressed that the President will veto the bill but that would probably avail nothing as the inflationists in both Houses are enough to pass the bill over his veto

Miscellaneous

We notice the sale in New York week before last of 83,000 lbs of Oregon wool at [illegible] cents ₽ lb The market at that date was quoted with prices quite as firm for fine fleeces combing and delaine selections and desirable lots of pulled, but for anything that is not up in condition or not wanted particularly by manufacturers the market is dull and sales have to be made at low figures

Latest reports of crops in the Wallamet Valley confirm previous accounts of the excellent prospects and increased acreage of all kinds of grain

The salmon catching season on the Columbia river has fairly opened and the run is said to be very abundant

The opening of navigation on the Upper Columbia has given quite an impetus to trade in that direction and orders for goods by that route are coming to hand quite liberally The establishment of a new line of boats between Portland and the Dalles is spoken of as a certainty by the Mountaineer
